

Expanding opportunities for lower income women to access affordable, high-quality maternal care stands at the heart of LifeSpring Hospitals.

At LifeSpring, we are motivated by:

- ◆ Astounding deficits in maternal and child health in India and worldwide
- ◆ Every woman's right to give birth to a healthy baby, safely and affordably
- ◆ Developing a model to impact these issues innovatively and profoundly

With our expanding chain of affordable, high-quality maternal hospitals, we have taken on the challenge to provide original, effective healthcare solutions for women and young children.

Our hospitals put options for maternal care within reach of low-income women through charging low rates. To affect the kind of change we envision, this affordability is coupled with our determination to provide our customers with choices and care that recognize their dignity.

At the same time, our design is geared toward sustainability and ensuring our ability to grow our chain of hospitals, thus reaching an ever-increasing number of Indian women.

Join LifeSpring's mission: Sponsor a Birth

LifeSpring's model makes maternal care affordable for new sectors of the Indian population. Families of rickshaw drivers and day laborers frequent our hospitals; almost a third of our clients have had little or no schooling.

Yet millions of Indian families still cannot come up with the resources to pay LifeSpring's lowest rates. To deepen our impact in the communities we operate and on the maternal healthcare situation in India, our Sponsoring Births Initiative aims to reach these individuals — the most underserved.

For the cost of a tank of gas, a pair of jeans, or a dinner out for two, you could collaborate with us in a direct and meaningful way: $40 pays for a woman to give birth at LifeSpring who otherwise wouldn't have been able to access our care.
